California Lemon Law

It is high time you stopped being frustrated by your troublesome Alfa Romeo. The California Lemon Law, alternatively known as the Song – Beverly Act, protects all consumers who purchased or leased a lemon car. The California law presents the manufacturer of the vehicle with an opportunity to buy back the defective vehicle or compensate the affected consumer with cash.

Upon failure of compliance with the stated standards and promises in their warranty, the manufacturers are held accountable for their vehicles as a result protecting the consumer courtesy of the Magnuson – Moss Warranty Act. A car will be subject to protection if it qualifies to be a lemon after meeting any of the following criteria;

- In the course of the warranty period, the vehicle had a minimum of four repairs of a similar issue.
- A minimum of two repairs for a case that could threaten safety starting during manufacturers` warranty period. Sometimes only one major safety issue may be sufficient to qualify.
- The vehicle has spent a cumulative 30 days in the repair shop during the warranty period.
